

Patient Proofing with ID.me

How to verify your identity to access health records

ID.me is verifying your identity so you can access your healthcare records.

The 21st Century Cures Act prevents the blocking of any patient access to their own electronic medical records (EMR) or electronic health records (EHR). These regulations are designed to provide patients with stronger health data access and data transparency. Healthcare providers must meet new security and verification requirements, so they partner with ID.me to make sure you are who you say you are.

What you'll need to prove your identity:

Enter your mobile phone number and your date of birth

OR

Upload your driver's license, state ID card or passport
